A wonderful turn out of nine tables (36) persons, sat down to an evening of good bridge. We wish to welcome the newcomers and hope to see them out again. Bridge lessons got underway last Sunday night at 7 p.m. with some ten persons intent on learning to improve their game. We hope to see even more interested players out next Sunday, either for lessons or a game, or both. We are a most enthusiastic group and hope in the not too distant future we can invite other clubs in the area to join us. We can, in the Community Hall, accommodate about twenty-four tables. Won't it be a wonderful night when our own St. Albert Bridge Club can host a game with some ninety-six persons sitting down to a good evenings game of bridge? Will you join us next Sunday night in a good evening of bridge and fellowship

EDUCATION AS A WHOLE

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

by S. SIEBEN, Principal Mission Park School

In societies of Western civilization the junior high school age span (12 - 16) is viewed as the beginning of the transition period between childhood and adulthood. This transition involves physiological changes, emotional changes, social changes, educational and intellectual changes.

The junior high school pupil is no longer a child yet he is not an adult. This transition period is a time when it is difficult to consider him either as a child or as an adult. At this time the individual cannot be treated as a child, in fact such treatment is resented. Yet this same individual is by no means fully mature and therefore cannot be treated as an adult.

The individual during the transition stage is referred to as an adolescent and it is a common observation that the adolescent is a source of perplexity and anxiety to adults, especially to parents and teachers. There is perhaps no period in a person's life which is more difficult than are the junior high school years. This pupil is not only misunderstood by adults but very often is also a real problem to himself because of the earlier mentioned changes involved.

In order that those who work with junior high school students may do the most effective job it is essential that nature of adolescence with all its problems of growing up be known and appreciated. The following observations which have been gleaned from the writings of such authorities on adolescent psychology as Laycock, Wattenberg and Garrison, should be of value to all those associated with this age group.

The biggest job adolescents have on hand is that of becoming adults. If boys and girls are to become real adults they must grow up emotionally, socially, physically, intellectually and morally. A brief consideration of what it means to be mature or grown up in these respects will bear out the fact that becoming an adult is not an easy task.

In order to become emotionally mature the junior high school student must develop the ability to carry a reasonable load of tension without blowing up. Every human being runs into irritations, annoyances, disappointments, frustrations and difficulties. When a child meets any of these situations he may react by crying, becoming angry, by sulking or pouting or even with temper-tantrums. The adolescent must learn to meet such situations calmly, without temper outbursts, tears pouting, sulking or self-pity.

While growing up socially the adolescent must achieve the following tasks: (1) He must achieve emotional independence from the home. (2) He must be able to have good friendships with those of his own age. (3) He must make a reasonable adjustment to accepted social customs and conventions. (4) He must find a vocation that interests and suits him.

The first of these - to become free from childish dependence on parents and other adults is the most difficult - both for parents and children. Boys and girls want to grow independent yet the adult world is strange and complicated. Parents, on the other hand, are afraid what the world may do to innocent and inexperienced youth. In the confused situation adolescent boys and girls often rebel when parents assert their authority.

The other characteristics of growing up socially are also important. The most powerful single influence during the adolescent years is the power of group approval. Most junior high school boys and girls are pre-occupied with social activities. Getting along with people of their own age group is their most important business. Socially accepted customs and conventions are conveyed by the parents and school and in order to gain future economic independence the adolescent must at least begin thinking of selecting and preparing for an occupation.

In the process of becoming intellectually mature the adolescent must learn to (1) make his own decisions (2) take responsibility for himself and others (3) maintain an open mind until all facts are known. (4) bear the indifference of the society to his own misfortunes. During the adolescent stage the brain reaches its full power and although the junior high school student lacks the wisdom that comes with years of experience he is now capable of thinking in terms of abstraction and generalities. He can learn new things with speed equal to that of his parents and teachers. He is ready and often willing to challenge them in their reasoning and traditional viewpoints.

Becoming physically mature is a process taken care of by nature. This however, does not mean that no problems arise in this respect. During adolescence the endocrine system speeds up the growth of the body, body proportions change, the facial features become those of the adult, skin changes appear and other bodily changes occur which make the individual realize that he is growing up physically and acquiring the body and face that will be his throughout life. The individual at this time, must learn to accept his physical self, to protect it along with his health and use it effectively. Adolescent boys compare their height, weight, strength and motor skills with their age mates. An unfavorable comparison may be a source of frustration and anxiety. Girls become concerned over their physical development, especially when their development does not give them the feminine appearance of their age mates. Many problems arise because certain masculine and feminine qualities have become a part of our social culture. The adolescent boy longs for a physique which will identify him with men, while the girl makes every effort to attain the physique of the adult women. Sexual maturity, which accompanies physical maturity, is also a source of anxiety and concern for the individual.

In order to become morally mature, the adolescent must learn to act towards each other human being as if he were of infinite worth. This means tolerance of and fair dealing with all others. Moral maturity depends on the set of values and philosophy of life the individual acquires. These are tied up with many things over which he has no control, (ie family's religion, cultural background, social status, family ties, economic security). Most people come to terms with life in so far as a philosophy, set of values and standards are concerned through their religion, but all have to do it in some way. Unless the adolescent develops some standard or system of values he will be without a stable guide to help him in making decisions. Much of what he does as an adult will be the result of his philosophy of life as developed during the adolescent years.

In summary the foregoing observations point out that the junior high school student, having broken with childhood, concentrates on the job of becoming an adult. This means that his personality structure must undergo a series of changes. He emancipates himself from parents and other adults, assumes new attitudes toward others and himself and learns new social and vocational skills. Physically, he may have reached adult size and strength. Intellectually, he approaches adult level. Complicating the adolescent's life is the fact that adults sometimes treat him as a child while demanding adult behavior. His behavior is shaped by the customs and expectations of the community in which he lives. He is greatly influenced by his peers. Social life is important to him and he often acts in terms of indifference to adults. At home there may be friction with parents and other brothers and sisters while he moves to new and stable relationships with them.

In the years before and during adolescence, boys and girls should be aided by the home and school to develop attitudes which make them look forward with eagerness to growing up and to the physical, social, emotional and intellectual changes involved. They should be helped to face all these changes, not only with full information but also with wholesome attitudes.

SCOUTERS TRAINING COMMITTEE IS NEW FUNCTION

Prior to the organization of the Landing Trail District Council, the matters pertaining to training of Scouters was left to the individual groups and the Northern Field Commissioner. Now, reported D. B. Fraser, Training Chairman, the District Council co-ordinates such activities. In March of 1962, courses were held in St. Albert for both Pack Leaders and Troop Leaders. A similar Pack Scouters course is being held at Westlock on November 18 and 19th, while a Troop Scouters course is planned for Morinville on November 24 and 25th. Fifty-two Scouters have taken advantage of these training courses during the past year.

SCOUTERS HAVE PERMANENT SCOUT CAMPSITE Larry Martindale, Chairman of Camping Committee of the Landing Trail District Scouting Council announced at the annual meeting that the location of a permanent camp site for Scouts has been selected, and plans are now being completed to lease it from the Provincial Government. The site is a twenty-four acre island on Island Lake in the Athabasca area. Due to its location, it will be used as a Scout Camp only. The name of the camp will be Nickerson Island, in memory of the late Scouter, Leo Nickerson. Development of the site will begin this winter.

SENIOR 1552 CAMPING DAYS

Sounds like a pretty full year, but that is the actual count of Camper Days put in at Scout and Cub camps by boys of the Landing Trail Scouting District during the past year. In St. Albert, 91 of our own Scouts spent a total of 373 days at Scout Camps, while 113 of our Cubs spent a total of 147 days at Camps. The total camping figures include a Scouting Camporee, conducted by District Scout Master Robert Smart, and account for 462 camper days, by 154 Scouts.

With the new campsites for Scouts, and plans for a similar site for Cubs, the district figures are expected to be much larger in the future.

Although nothing definite has been decided regarding the location of a new liquor outlet to be opened in St. Albert much discussion took place, including the opinion of Corporal Sayko, who suggested that the parking problems arising from its being placed on Piron Street would need to be considered.

Signs have been ordered, but have not arrived as yet for the dead end blocking of Greengrove Drive.

The Town of St. Albert now owns and operates a Dog Pound which is officially "open for business".

Since November 2, 1962, when verbal options on land were withdrawn, there have been 57 cash deposits placed on town property amounting to $48,000.

Cpl. Sayko, of the R.C.M.P., reported that a new man had been added to the force on October 31, 1962, bringing the number to four. He stated further, that "conditions have been favourable in the Town of St. Albert, in the province of Alberta".

The Fire Chief reported that during the month of October, there were 800 St. Albert residences inspected for Fire Prevention, and all business establishments were checked. There were three minor calls answered, and nothing of a serious nature.

According to the Building Inspector's report, there were 36 single family residences constructed during October, 12 res-

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

Municipal development experts are more and more convinced that a town or city cannot have a healthy growth, if such a town or city doesn't have enough industry. Industry does not only help to keep the tax rates as low as possible, but it also brings more business and work for everybody, on a higher employment level. For this reason, the Town of St. Albert joined, four years ago, the Edmonton Area Industrial Development Association, whose aim is to promote, plan and encourage the development of industry. After four years, St. Albert still does not have any kind of industry, not even the smallest secondary type. Last week, there was a panel discussion at an Industrial Development Conference at the MacDonald Hotel. The different speakers during this conference were all very clear that we have to fight for getting industry. Up to now, we in St. Albert, have not fought. Most of the fighting was done by our big neighbour, the city of Edmonton, who at least got some industry out of it. Our suggestion is that we, St. Albert, should take the promotion, planning and encouragement of industry in our own hands, because it is a must for St. Albert's future. An all round businessman, industrially minded, with international experience and armed with all the possibilities that St. Albert can offer, such as location, taxes, labour etc, should be appointed as industrial development officer, and given high authority and budget, to bring, as soon as possible into our area, a healthy industry. It is worthwhile to fight for this, it is a must, and any further delay will cause great economical troubles for St. Albert. We do not believe that depending on a district and/or Edmonton will help us at all. Edmonton itself has a big problem to get industry within her boundaries. Of course, it is all very well to stay as a member of the Area Development Association, to show our willingness to co-operate, but we shouldn't expect any result from it. Four years have undoubtedly proven that St. Albert has to take the industrial development into our own hands. It is a duty to all our citizens and to our posterity that we take such a decision as soon as possible.

CULTURAL ENTERTAINMENT

This week is really a highlight in cultural entertainment in St. Albert. Coming on Friday and Saturday, the St. Albert on Sturgeon Players will bring "Papa is All", and on Sunday, the St. Albert Music Society will sponsor a concert where St. Albert's well known children's choir, the Orisales, will present their newest songs. We are really fortunate to have such culturally active groups in our town.

We would suggest to all our drama lovers to come and see your own St. Albert drama group on Friday and Saturday in the Sir George Simpson School. Your attendance will encourage them to continue this so-important facet of our town life. Regarding the concert of the Orisales. Mothers and Fathers in St. Albert! How could you better spend your Sunday afternoon, than by taking your kids to a concert performed by kids! You and your children will enjoy it. It is a real family affair, it keeps you young, and it keeps you and your kids at least an hour away from the overloaded TV programmes. There is no admission and the place is the centre of our town, the St. Albert Community Hall. Hope to see you there at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday.

"The Duties, Responsibilities and Authority of a Town Manager". Dr. Grant, a former member of the executive staff of the World Health Organization, has had all round experience in the Management-Advisory Service. It was a splendid idea of our Council to invite Dr. Grant, who has just finished an organizational shake-up at the Royal Alexander Hospital in Edmonton, to inform and explain to our Council, the Manager form of government. Dr. Grant's speech brought a healthy laugh many times in our Council Chambers. He made it quite clear to the Council, that if our Town decided to have the Town Manager system, such a manager would have great responsibilities, but also great authority. Of course, a Town Manager is bound to the laws, rules, policies and also the authority which the Council wishes to delegate him. Dr. Grant also explained the position of the secretary-treasurer in the manager system, which he saw as the right hand of the town manager, but not in any way, whatsoever, responsible to the Council. It is the Town Manager who bears the complete responsibility on his shoulders, and therefore he is the only one of all the town employees who would be responsible to the Council. Not the chief engineer, nor the fire chief, nor the health officer, etc. None of them would appear before the Council to defend or explain their department's policies. It is only the Town Manager who appears before the Council and who would inform, advise, and defend the policies and needs of all the different departments.

Dr. Grant's advice to the Council regarding a Recreation Board was positive and remarkable. A Recreation Board, Dr. Grant said, is a very important body in a town, composed of the citizens of that town, but such a Board can only be an advisory board, with no say in spending public funds. He repeated several times that only the Council can decide where the public money can be used for recreational activities. A Recreation Director is also very important, Dr. Grant said, but such a director would not be directly responsible to the Council. Here again, it is the Town Manager who, after consulting with the Recreation Director and the Recreation Board, would appear before the Council to report the plans, thoughts and suggestions of the Recreation Board.

Dr. Grant warned the Council that they have to control the Town Manager in such a way that incorrect management or behaviour would be almost impossible. After all, he said, the Town Manager could make a big mistake, he could even be jailed for it, but nevertheless, the Council would be responsible. If such was the case, the Council would have no alternative but to resign.

The Council was visibly impressed by Dr. Grant's speech. During the coffee hour Dr. Grant continued his discussion with the members. Our Council now has some very good ideas to think about before they make any definite decisions regarding the Town Manager system.

Papa Aukamp, right (Joost Weeheym) with all his thunder, menaces his son Jake, left (Tom Turner) for disobedience, in "Papa is All", November 23, 24.

PAPA IS ALL

The introductions have now been made, and we hope you have enjoyed meeting the people involved in "Papa is All" and will now come and see for yourself this entertaining play. The whole thing looks as easy as rolling off a log, which is part of the pleasure of seeing it. It's humorous, quaint and carefully artless, with its funny plot and background of Mennonite manners. The plot is very ingenious, and is provided with a sufficient number of surprises at the proper points to keep the action in lively movement.

We hope a good time will be had by everybody. Again, curtain time is 8:15, November 23 and 24 at Sir George Simpson School.

ST. ALBERT FIRE BRIGADE HONORED

At a banquet and ball, held in the Club Mocombo on Friday, November 16, Mayor Veness accepted for the Town of St. Albert, a certificate of merit award in recognition of the fine work done by the St. Albert Volunteer Fire Fighters Brigade. Mr. William McKay, Deputy Fire commissioner from Edmonton, attended in order to present the award. With him were Inspector Fred Wood and Inspector Dixie Shuttleworth. The Mayor thanked the Deputy Commissioner and then presented the certificate to Fire Chief, Mr. Fred Tetarenko.

In attendance were the 24 volunteer fighters and their wives, councilmen and their wives, and guest speakers and their wives.

It is with pride that we note that in the past three years, since Mr. Tetarenko took over as Fire Chief, St. Albert has received two first place awards, and a second. The fire brigade had been formed during Fire Prevention Week of 1959 and one week later received a first place award in the Provincial competition. Last year, they received a second place, with honourable mention. This competition is province wide, with competitors grouped according to population.

The Fire Brigade does more than just fight fires. During their spare time, which worked out to be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of every week these past few months, the Fire Brigade inspected over 800 St. Albert residences, advising St. Albert people how they can have a risk-free home. A note of interest, Fire Prevention Week falls on the week of the great Chicago Fire, and is observed both in Canada and the U.S.A. during the same week.
